INTRODUCTION

Background

The Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC” or “Commission”) has been instituting structural reforms and has begun to develop a comprehensive strategy to raise the standards of corporate governance, with the purpose of building investor confidence, developing capital market and helping achieve high sustained growth for the corporate sector and the economy.

The SEC has come out with various issuances and circulars to further enhance the various initiatives it had implemented, to provide the very much needed impetus to improve corporate governance in corporations whose securities are registered or listed, corporations which are grantees of permits/licenses and secondary franchise from the Commission and public companies.

GT Capital Holdings, Inc. (“GT Capital”, “Company” or “Corporation”), in line with its vision to be a world-class conglomerate and publicly listed company, dominant in all the key sectors where it is invested, most sought after by global investors seeking opportunities for strategic partnership in the Philippines, and a major contributor to nation building, adheres to the principles of good governance and adopts this Manual on Corporate Governance (“Manual”).

Definition of Corporate Governance

The Commission defines corporate governance as the system of stewardship and control to guide organizations in fulfilling their long-term economic, moral, legal and social obligations towards their stakeholders. It is a system of direction, feedback and control using regulations, performance standards and ethical guidelines to hold the Board of Directors and senior management accountable for ensuring ethical behavior – reconciling long-term customer satisfaction with shareholder value – to the benefit of all stakeholders and society. Its purpose is to maximize the Corporation’s long-term success, creating sustainable value for its shareholders, stakeholders and the nation¹.

Importance of Corporate Governance in Public Companies

Public companies play a strategic role in the smooth functioning of the national economy. The presence of an effective corporate governance system, within an individual company and across an economy as a whole, helps to provide a degree of confidence that is necessary for the proper functioning of a market economy.

Guiding Principles of Good Corporate Governance

Good Corporate Governance enshrines the three principles, as follows:

- | | |
|--------------------------|---|
| Fairness/equity - | implies that the rights of all concerned parties are protected. For holding companies, the Board of Directors should not only promote the interest of the stockholders but also that of other stakeholders such as investors and lenders. |
| Accountability - | involves providing adequate incentives and instilling in the business environment the discipline to act in the best interest of the company. |
| Transparency - | the availability of information is sought through expansion of public disclosure requirements. |

PART I. MANUAL

The Board of Directors ("Board") and the Management of GT Capital hereby commit themselves to the principles and best practices contained in this Manual, as well as the rules and regulations of the Commission, the Philippine Stock Exchange ("PSE"), and the Philippine Dealing & Exchange Corp. ("PDEX"), including in particular those that concern the development of the Philippine capital market, and acknowledge that the same may guide the attainment of their corporate goals.

1. OBJECTIVE

This Manual shall institutionalize the principles of good corporate governance in the entire Corporation.

The Board, Management, employees and shareholders believe that corporate governance is a necessary component of what constitutes sound strategic business management and will therefore undertake every effort necessary to create awareness of this policy within the Corporation.

2. COMPLIANCE SYSTEM

2.1 Board of Directors

Compliance with the principles of good corporate governance shall start with the Board of Directors. The Board is primarily responsible for the governance of the Corporation. Corollary to setting the policies for the accomplishment of corporate objectives, it shall provide an independent check on Management.

The Board shall be composed of at least five (5) but not more than fifteen (15) members who are elected by the stockholders from a final list of candidates prepared by the Nominations Committee.

2.1.1 General Responsibility

It shall be the Board's responsibility to foster the long-term success of the Corporation and secure its sustained growth and competitiveness in a manner consistent with its fiduciary responsibility, which it shall exercise in the best interest of the Corporation, its stockholders and other stakeholders.

The Board should formulate the corporation's vision, mission, strategic objectives, policies and procedures that shall guide its activities, including the means to effectively monitor Management's performance.

2.1.2 Specific Duties and Functions

- (f) Adopt a system of check and balance with the Board. A regular review of the effectiveness of such system should be conducted to ensure the integrity of the decision-making and reporting processes at all times. There should be a continuing review of the Corporation's internal control system in order to maintain its adequacy and effectiveness.
- (g) Identify key risk areas and performance indicators and monitor these factors with due diligence to enable the Corporation to anticipate and prepare for possible threats to its operational and financial viability.
- (h) Formulate and implement policies and procedures that would ensure the integrity and transparency of related party transactions between and among the Corporation and its parent company, joint ventures, subsidiaries, associates, affiliates, major stockholders, officers and directors, including their spouses, children and dependent siblings and parents and of interlocking director relationships by members of the Board.

2.1.3 Specific Duties and Responsibilities of a Director

A director's office is one of trust and confidence. A director should act in the best interest of the Corporation in a manner characterized by transparency, accountability and fairness. He should also exercise leadership, prudence and integrity in directing the Corporation towards sustained progress.

A director should observe the following norms of conduct:

- (a) Conduct fair business transactions with the Corporation and ensure that his personal interest does not conflict with the interests of the Corporation.

The basic principle to be observed is that a director should not use his position to profit or gain some benefit or advantage for himself and/or his related interests. He should avoid situations that may compromise his impartiality. If an actual or potential conflict of interest may arise on the part of a director, he should fully and immediately disclose it and should not participate in the decision-making process. A director who has a continuing material conflict of interest should seriously consider resigning from his position.

A conflict of interest shall be considered material if the director's personal or business interest is antagonistic to that of the Corporation, or stands to acquire or gain financial advantage at the expense of the Corporation.

- (b) Devote the time and attention necessary to properly and effectively perform his duties and responsibilities.

A director should be present, whether physically or through electronic presence, at least 75% of the meetings of the Board.

A director should devote sufficient time to familiarize himself with the Corporation's business. He should be constantly aware and knowledgeable of the Corporation's operations to enable him to meaningfully contribute to the Board's work. He should attend and actively participate in Board and committee meetings, review meeting materials and, if called for, ask questions or seek explanation.

A director shall have working knowledge of the statutory and regulatory requirements that affect the Corporation, including its articles of incorporation and by-laws, the rules and regulations of the Commission, and where applicable, the requirements of relevant regulatory agencies.

Non-executive directors shall only serve as directors to a maximum of five (5) publicly-listed companies. Further, a director should notify the Board before accepting a directorship in another company.

Reliance on information volunteered by Management would not be sufficient in all circumstances and further inquiries may have to be made by members of the Board to enable them to properly perform their duties and responsibilities. For this purpose, members shall be given independent access to Management and the Corporate Secretary on any issue which requires clarification.

(c) Act judiciously.

Before deciding on any matter brought before the Board, a director should carefully evaluate the issues and, if necessary, make inquiries and request clarification. He must act on a fully informed basis, in good faith, with due diligence and care, and in the best interest of the Corporation and all shareholders.

(d) Exercise independent judgment.

A director should view each problem or situation objectively. If a disagreement with other directors arises, he should carefully evaluate and explain his position. He should not be afraid to take an unpopular position. Corollary, he should support plans and ideas that he thinks are beneficial to the corporation.

(e) Transparency

The Board is primarily accountable to the stockholders. It should provide them with a balanced and comprehensive assessment of the Corporation's performance, position and prospects on a quarterly basis, including interim and other reports that could adversely affect its business, as well as reports to regulators that are required by law.

The Board has the responsibility to ensure that any related party transactions and other unusual or infrequently occurring transactions, particularly those which pass certain thresholds of materiality, are properly reviewed and approved in such a way which guarantees fairness and transparency of the transactions.

(f) Observe confidentiality.
